DETAILED ACTION

Information Disclosure Statement

1. The information disclosure statement (IDS) submitted on June 04, 2003 is considered by the examiner.

Drawings

2. The drawings (Figs. 1 and 2) were received on November 17, 2003. These drawings are approved.
3. The following changes to the drawings have been approved by the examiner and agreed upon by applicant: please see attached marked-up copies of Figs. 1 and 2. In order to avoid abandonment of the application, applicant must make these above agreed upon drawing changes.

Reasons For Allowance

4. The following is an examiner's statement of reasons for allowance:

Claims 1-6 recite, inter alia, an integrated circuit that comprises voltage drop measuring circuitry for performing detections of a voltage drop between a first and second point along a respective one of the power supply connections; switchable test current drawing circuits coupled in parallel at respective further locations along the power supply conductor; a test circuit, arranged to cause the voltage drop measuring circuitry to perform said detections successively while activating at least a respective one of the current drawing circuits.

Claims 7-11 recite, inter alia, a method of testing an integrated circuit, the method comprising switching on at least one test current drawing circuits during each detection, wherein the at least one test current drawing circuit that is switched on during a first one of the detections is switched off during a second one of the detections, when the at least one current drawing circuit that is switched on during the first one of the detections is connected along the power supply conductor further from the power supply connections on which the second one of the detection is performed than the at least one of the current drawing circuits that is switched on during the further one of the detections.

The art of record, Brambilla et al. (U.S.P. 5,801,536), and others, does not disclose the above limitations, nor would it be obvious to modify the art of record so as to include the above limitations.

Any comments considered necessary by applicant must be submitted no later than the payment of the issue fee and, to avoid processing delays, should preferably accompany the issue fee. Such submissions should be clearly labeled "Comments on Statement of Reasons for Allowance."
